Well start with Utahs arches,

made from wind, frost, and rain.

Natures rocky sculptures-an art that can't remain. From H is for Handcarts to Z is for Zion National Park, A is for Arches presents the history, landscape, and people of the great state of Utah.

My Personal Review:
What a nice book! Becky Hall maintains the standard in the Discover America State by State series with her descriptions of Utah history, geography, geology, and culture. Katherine Larson's illustrations are very detailed and nicely done. If you recognize a place or location (Hardware Ranch for me), you can't help notice the fine details she includes in her paintings.

Nine species of wildlife occur in the illustrations.

Brigham Young is mentioned 4 times.

The Utah Jazz is mentioned once.

Under "H is for Handcarts," Hall writes "The pioneers' success proved that using handcarts was an efficient and inexpensive way to move large numbers of people westward." Inexpensive, yes. Efficient... the journal entries describing the deaths and hardships lead to an alternative interpretation.

Nevertheless, this is a very nice book to give to anyone who would like to learn more about Utah.
