Charlie Chick (Pop-Up Book) by Nick Denchfield

Charlie The Chick Resent!

Charlie eats lots of barley and wheat and corn. He has BIG feet, a BIG mouth, and a BIG belly. In fact, there's only one thing bigger than Charlie Chick. . . . Join the fun in this great big book featuring enormous pop-ups on every spread, a sound chip, and a HUGE surprise at the end.

My Personal Review:
My daughter loves to read books and this one has been a clear favorite since she was very young. Now when she wakes up in the morning the first thing she does is point to her bookshelf and makes me read Charlie Chick to her. The book only has a few pages so beware that your child will probably want you to read it over & over again. Since it's a pop-up book, we quickly decided to keep it on a high shelf that she can't reach herself to ensure that it doesn't get ruined and we've tried teaching her to be "gentle" with the pages when we read it together. The front cover is supposed to make a tweet sound when you press the button - ours never did but that would have only been a plus. We still love the book.
