Frankie Landau-Banks at age 14:

Debate Club.

Her fathers bunny rabbit.

A mildly geeky girl attending a highly competitive boarding school.

Frankie Landau-Banks at age 15:

A knockout figure.

A sharp tongue.

A chip on her shoulder.

And a gorgeous new senior boyfriend: the supremely goofy, word-obsessed Matthew Livingston.

Frankie Landau-Banks.

No longer the kind of girl to take no for an answer.

Especially when no means shes excluded from her boyfriends all-male secret society.

Not when her ex-boyfriend shows up in the strangest of places.
Not when she knows shes smarter than any of them.

When she knows Matthews lying to her.

And when there are so many, many pranks to be done.

Frankie Landau-Banks, at age 16:

Possibly a criminal mastermind.

This is the story of how she got that way.

My Personal Review:

Frankie is fifteen and has returned to her exclusive private boarding school for sophomore year. Over the summer, shes put on several inches and twenty pounds, all in the right places. Suddenly, she is getting noticed by even the most popular of the campus boys. Before she knows it, she has the attention of the most popular senior guy. This change of status is thrilling for Frankie, until she realizes that she is really just viewed as an accessory and not a member of the group in her own right. She finds a way to become more involved and perhaps win some grudging respect, but what will it cost her in the end?

This is a wonderful read, and truly a difficult book to put down. Frankie is original, smart, funny, and the best young adult character Ive come across in ages. Id love to read more about her adventures, and I hope there will be a sequel.
