The authors of HOW ARE YOU PEELING? serve up a cornucopia of concepts in this big book for brilliant babies. Shapes: Is that a carrot, or a triangle? Colors: Watch for peppers in every range of the rainbow. Numbers: A zero-to-ten zoo! ABCs: A full produce section of sculptures acts out the alphabet. And Opposites: Youve never seen Up/Down and Big/Little like this before! Every time we think Saxton Freymann can do no more with bok choy or broccoli, he astonishes us all over again. And this book is one-stop shopping for all parents early-childhood education needs. Try some FOOD FOR THOUGHT!

I bought this book because my son already loved Fast food from the same authors/collection (he read it at a public library) and as I bought it to him as a gift I included this book as a companion. The concept is similar in that fruits and vegetables are used to recreate things such as faces, animals or vehicles. It is quite different from fast food, however, in that this is more of a dictionary/encyclopedia type. There are several sections on letters, shapes, colors, numbers, etc. that are illustrated via the well-known fruits and vegetables. This makes this book considerably longer, and it lacks the rhymes of fast food. In its category, this is an awesome book. It shares the quality and beauty of fast food, the clever idea. My 2yo really liked this book and for a while preferred it over the other one! However, he is still young and went back to fast food for the rhymes and its shortness. Nonetheless, I am almost sure that he will come back to this one as he grows older and finds more pleasure in this type of work, perhaps once he is learning the letters, etc.
