Personal Review: Synopsis of the Four Gospels: Completely Revised on the Basis of the Greek Text of the Nestle Aland (English-only text)
I had received a damaged copy (creases throughout the book) of this text, required for an online course I am in, from the University of Dallas. I donated the slightly damaged, but usable, text and ordered a replacement through Amazon rather than try to return it. This book is a must in serious biblical study and is very easy to use. If you need to find out if a Gospel event is recorded in Mark, Matthew, Luke or John--one or all four, this is the book. The parable of the Good Samaritan (10:29-37) and of the Prodigal Son (15:11-32) are only found in Luke. Only Mark gives a NAME to the blind beggar, Bartimaeus, (10:46. Only Luke and Matthew have infancy narratives of Jesus, but their versions are quite different. It is well indexed. I could not study the four gospels without it.
