ESPN, the network that revolutionized the way we watch sports, has long been associated with terrific sports reporting. And no hour on ESPN is more popular than SportsCenter, a.k.a. The Big Show. With their typical wise-guy flair, the celebrated tandem of cohosts, Keith Olbermann and Dan Patrick, offer a comedic, behind-the-scenes look at what makes SportsCenter tick. Chapters titled Bill Buckner--What Happened?, How to Be a Sportscaster When You Grow Up, and Put Your Baseball Cards in Your Bicycle Spokes, Now! are widely regarded as the three most compelling and astutely researched chapters in the sportswriting canon. Learn the true origins of the expressions en fuego, Niedermeyer: Dead!, and Detlef Schrempf! in the glossary of terms, find out who makes their Twenty-One Top Ten Athletes list, and discover the real reason why Patrick held Bill Murrays hand at the ESPYs.--D.G. McDonald

My Personal Review:
I bought the audio version of Keith and Dan's book in addition to the printed version. While the book contains a lot more material than the tapes, it's great to listen to Keith and Dan banter back and forth for three hours. Take this one in the car with you on long trips--it will definitely make the trip more interesting. This is a must-have for any true Olbermaniac (like myself.)

For More 5 Star Customer Reviews and Lowest Price:
The Big Show: Inside ESPNs Sportscenter by Dan Patrick - 5 Star Customer Reviews and Lowest Price!