The End of The Road: A Maxie and Stretch Mystery by Sue Henry

New from the multiple award-winning author of The Refuge, whose grasp of storytelling and strong characterization matches her with Sue Grafton. (Colorado Springs Gazette)

Maxie McNabb and her miniature dachshund, Stretch, are just back from their latest adventure when a murder shatters the quiet in their hometown of Homer, Alaska. Now it's up to Maxie to find the killer—a search that leads her to a place called the end of the road.

In The End of the Road, Sue Henry again writes a cozy mystery featuring Maxie and Stretch. A brand new friend, John Walker, commits suicide in his hotel room—or does he?

I don't think it's a reasonable idea to offer someone Maxie has just met a ride in her car, or to invite a strange woman to spend the night in her home. Nevertheless, the cozy contrast between the cold, sleet, and snow outside, and the warmth found inside, is delightful in this story. Not only do I give this book 5 stars, so does my librarian, who also enjoyed this book.
