Ada has three names. Wang Bin is what the caregivers called her at her Chinese orphanage. Ada is the name her American parents gave her as the three traveled home. And there is a third name, a name the infant Ada only heard whispered by her Chinese mother. That name, unknown but treasured, is someplace in Adas heart. Additional pages based on Adas scrapbook will inspire readers to collect their own drawings, photos, and thoughts.

My Personal Review:
Loved this!! My daughter is 6 1/2 and she loved it too. She identified with the little girl in the book and continued to comment on how their lives were so alike. It's beautifully written and illustrated. I like that it looks like a chapter book, but is a bit shorter and how it's illustrated like a picture book - it really captures your eye and imagination. My daughter and I really loved the scrapbook section at the back too. Beautiful, it's a must read for any Chinese adoptee!
